Creative Domain(s)

The domains I worked in while making this artwork were the Cognitive Domain and the Intuitive Domain. I used the cognitive domain because I planned what I was going to do for my artwork, I used tracing paper to copy my images into my final copy, I tried to figure out what colors I'm going to use to make my roses stand out, I made a list of the words I'm going to use and how I'm going to add them into my artwork. I had a goal in my head about how my artwork is going to turn out. I came up with different metaphors and which ones would go well with my illustrations. For my intuitive domain I put my own feelings and experiences into my artwork, I made sure to use words that not only I had gone through and are going through but that would also connect with the rest of the community. I had a sketch in my mind that I was going to use but I used my intuition and made it different than what I originally planned and I enjoyed it way more than my original work.
